Library Rules and Regulations

Those who are entitled to the privileges of the library may exchange books twice each week, on regular days for exchanging books. Leave book, with card exposed, upon the settee in the wing, when leaving room in the morning.

Writing upon, marking, or defacing any portion of the book or cover, with ink, pencil, or by other means; cutting or tearing out portions of the printed matter or blank pages; bending a book back to back, or in any manner injuring it unnecessarily, or placing it over or under any hot or damp substance is strictly prohibited.

The same rules apply to the catalogue, which must be kept clean and free from marks of any kind.

Whoever receives a book and catalogue will be held responsible for them while in his possession; exchanging or loaning books, except through the librarian, or taking them to the shops or yard is positively forbidden; and books must be returned to the library within two weeks of the time of receiving them, or notice given to the librarian of a desire to retain them longer.

Library cards are furnished for the use of those receiving books, and no substitute will be allowed in place of them. Cards should be kept clean and the number of the book desired neatly written, and not used for book marks, or in any manner soiled or torn, unfitting them for use.

Library books will be changed as follows:

South Wing . . . . . Mondays and Thursdays
East Wing, (North Side) " " "
East Wing, (South Side) Tuesdays and Fridays
West Wing, (North Side) " " "
West Wing, (South Side) Wednesdays and Saturdays
Arches . . . . . Tuesdays and Fridays

For violation of any of the above rules, the privilege of the library will be suspended, and report of the same will be made to the Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of the institution.
